Denson Gibson in a New Role.
 Colonel W. D. C. Gibson of the Nevada Indian Agency, was in town last evening, and during conversation with a GAZETTE reporter, he remarked that he had bought McCormack's place at Winnemucca lake with the intention of making it a trading post for fishermen and travelers and a resort for sportsmen and pleasure parties.

Winnemucca lake is destined some day to obtain as much celebrity, if not more, than Lake Tahoe, and there are many good reasons why it should. Its trout are among the most beautiful in the world and they bite better and make a longer season than those in any other body of water in the west.

Again when the water on the lake is rough boatmen can retire to the mouth of the Truckee which is broad and quiet and bountifully stocked with cat-fish. To the north of the lake is a wild country where deer, sagehen, quail and other game abound. Colonel Gibson intends in time to make many improvements, and in a few years he expects to see quite a number of cottages, trees, etc. Let the good work go on.

RENO REPUBLICANS.

A CAMPAIGN CLUB ORGANIZED.

Proceedings of the Meeting and Synopses of the Speeches Made.

Pursuant to a published call, signed by many of Reno's most prominent Republicans, members of that party to the number of fifty met in the District Court room last evening for the purpose of organizing a Republican club.

Hon. H. L. Fish called the meeting to order, and after briefly stating its object, called for the nomination of a Temporary Chairman.

On motion of C. W. Booton, seconded by R. L. Fulton, H. H. Beck was unanimously chosen for the position. Mr. Beck unceremoniously himself from the snug corner in which he had ensconced himself, proceeded to the rostrum, and in a few well-chosen words, returned thanks for the honor conferred, etc. In the course of his speech he drew from his pocket a bandana of flapping hue, and in a moment from all parts of the hall came cries of "Take it in!" "Throw it out!"

Mr. Beck quickly realized the situation, and endeavored to hide the red flag of Free Trade. He finally managed to blurt out an excuse for its presence, and amid much merriment order was restored.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of a Temporary Secretary, and James B. Bloom was chosen.

On motion of R. L. Fulton the meeting then proceeded to the organization of a Republican club.

On motion of H. L. Fish it was ordered that the club be organized shall be known as the Reno Republican Club.

On motion of B. F. Leete the Chair appointed the following-named gentlemen as a Committee on Constitution and By-Laws: Messrs. R. L. Fulton, Frank Bell and R. R. Bigelow.

On motion of H. P. Kraus the Chair appointed Messrs. Kraus, R. H. Linsey, C. A. Bragg, B. F. Leete and H. L. Fish as a Committee on Permanent Organization and Order of Business.

On motion of Mr. Fish the Committee on Constitution and By-Laws was instructed to have a suitable roll of membership prepared in time for the next meeting.

The Chair suggested that some action be taken in regard to securing a suitable hall for the future meetings of the club.

C. W. Booton, on behalf of Uncle Jake McKisick, tendered the opera house, free of charge for the next meeting of the club. Mr. Booton's offer was accepted, and on motion of Mr. Fish it was ordered that the next meeting of the club be held at the Opera House on Friday evening, July 27, at 8 o'clock.

On motion of Frank Bell, the Chair, Secretary and W. E. Leete and were appointed a committee to arrange for a permanent meeting place.

The Chair suggested that as Hon. M. D. Foley, one of Nevada's delegates to the National Republican Convention, was present, he had no doubt but what he was there for the purpose of giving an account of his stewardship. Amid loud calls Mr. Foley arose, and after stating that he had but a few moments to spare, as he was going to leave for San Francisco on the next train, proceeded to give an account of his mission as follows: When we arrived in Chicago we found the Convention was Sherman whom we considered, next to Cleveland, the worst man who could be nominated. We stated positively that if Sherman was nominated the Republican party could not carry Nevada. After his defeat the delegation divided, and some voted for Alger, but we finally decided that Harrison was the best man to be nominated and cast our votes for the successful nominee. I also had the honor of being placed on the committee whose duty it was to notify Mr. Harrison, and as I had met him several times before, once in the Chamber at Washington, I was more than pleased to be of the committee. Our mission performed, I proceeded to New York where I conversed with many business men, of both parties, and I was surprised to hear life-long Democrats state positively that they would vote for Harrison and Protection.

One merchant, who said that he had always voted the Democratic party, told me his reasons for changing his mind. He said: "I carry in stock woolen goods, etc., valued at $500,000. The stock is worth that amount now and will be worth that amount November 6th, at which time, if Cleveland is elected, it will be worth but $400,000. Now if any man thinks I am going to vote $100,000 out of my pocket, he is a fool!" The Senator closed with stating that everywhere in the East the impression is general that, in the event of Cleveland's election, stagnation in business will follow, and that the business will be closed and many laboring men thrown out of employment. The result is that Republican clubs are being organized everywhere, and he was of the belief that every Northern State would give a Republican majority in November and that Harrison will have as great a majority in the Electoral College as Grant had over Greeley.

C. A. Bragg, the patriarch of the club, being called upon, stated that he was not at home when the call for the meeting was signed, but that he had his entire approval. In 1849, Commodore Harrison, when General William H. Harrison received the nomination for President, I walked forty miles to attend a log-cabin ratification of Tippecanoe and Tyler, too. I was one and twenty in August of that year, and I cast my first vote for William Henry Harrison. He did not live long after his inaugural, but I expect to live to see General Harrison elected the present year.

Frank Bell called upon Tremmer Coffin of Carson, who was present, for a speech, but that gentleman declined on the ground of recent sickness, which rendered him physically unable to do justice to himself or the subject. He, however, expressed himself as being in full accord and sympathy with the object of the meeting, and promised that he would do his part in the coming campaign.

Colonel B. H. Lindsey was next called upon, and delivered one of his characteristic speeches. He said:

The Democrats are at last getting their eyes opened, and are finding out that they have been mistaken all their lives, and that it was in the Republican party where they belonged. The platform of 1888, wherein was contained the plank relative to foreign immigration, should cause every lover of his country to be a staunch Republican. I had occasion a few days ago to deliver a Fourth of July oration, and I made it as thoroughly American as I could. For although I was born on foreign soil the man does not dare to live who is a better American than I. I am not a believer in the Americanism advocated by Frank Pixley and his cohorts, but I do believe in that Americanism which has for its cardinal doctrine "America for Americans" whether they be of foreign birth like myself or natives of the soil. In conclusion Mr. Lindsey stated that he would be found laboring for the common end during the coming campaign, and would always respond to the call of duty.

Jack R. Bigelow was also called upon, but declined, giving as his reason that he did not think it proper that a person in his position should take an active part in political discussions. He had mapped out this programme when he first donned the ermine, and would not turn from his rule this time or in the approaching campaign. He said, however, that whatever aid he could properly render he would do so cheerfully and promptly.

At this juncture there were loud calls for Dan Boyd, but that gentleman had taken refuge under a bench in the rear of the hall. Finally, as the calls became louder, he put his head from out of his hiding place, and in a high tenor voice, moved to adjourn. Nasby, who was also on "the ragged edge," seconded the motion, and upon a vote being taken the motion prevailed.

PEEK—FERGUSON.

Wedding of Stanley Peek and Miss Cora Ferguson to-day—List of Presents.

This afternoon, at the residence of the bride's mother on Chestnut street, between Third and Fourth, the Reverend C. L. Fisher officiating, Stanley Peek and Miss Cora Ferguson were united in the holy bonds of matrimony in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives. The happy couple were sustained in their trying but pleasant ordeal by the groom's friend, Mr. O. I. Cheyney of Woodland, who acted as best man, and Miss Lolo McLothe, as bridesmaid.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a shrimp pink surrah silk and lace, and wore elegant diamond ornaments. The parlors were visions of beauty, being decorated with the choicest of Flora's offering. After the ceremony an elegant collation was served to the guests, and the afternoon was spent in social converse.

The groom and bride are too well known in Reno, where they are esteemed and loved by all, to need any laudatory mention here, and the GAZETTE will give its brief account of a very interesting occasion in wishing the happy couple a long and prosperous voyage on the matrimonial sea, a wish in which it will be sincerely joined by the entire community.

The presents from friends were numerous and costly, and consisted of the following: House and lot on West street (a gift to the bride), Mrs. M. J. Ferguson; sewing machine (a gift to the bride), Stanley Peek; elegant China set, consisting of 100 pieces, George Humphrey; silver cake basket, Mr. and Mrs. Elmhurst; set silver spoons, Dr. and Mrs. Bishop; silver butter dish, Mr. and Mrs. Borden; silver caster, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Perry; silver engraved tin, the Frederick set of knives, from "Leone" and "Lalah" upholstered easy chair, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Stevenson; set water glasses and server, Henry, Etta and Della Douglas; pair salt cellars, Mary K. Layton; bottle of choice perfume, Mrs. E. Colwell; elegant China fancy basket, Mrs. and Emma Dean; fancy apron, Mrs. S. Deemer; set water glasses and server, Mrs. Cochran; glass fruit dish and flower vase, Mrs. Wilson; fancy broom, Miss Crissie Andrews; sack of flour, china doll and pooodle dog, "M. C. B."; camp rocker, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas; sealed envelope (contents unknown), to be opened July 28th, Mr. and Mrs. Cheyney; gold-lined spoon-holder, Walter Hastings.

JEFFREYS-LEWIS.

The Celebrated Actress Scores a Success on the Comstock.

The Virginia Chronicle of last evening publishes the following criticism: "Jeffreys-Lewis is as inseparably identified with the character of the heroine in 'Forget Me Not' as is Mrs. D. P. Bowers with that of Queen Elizabeth in the historical play bearing that title, and the former's personation of the unscrupulous adroitness is as finished a piece of histrionic art as that of the Virgin Queen by the great tragedienne. To write that he personation of the heroine in 'Forget Me Not' at the Opera House last evening even surpassed the usual standard of excellence—which always characterizes the dramatic art of Miss Lewis—is the highest tribute that can be bestowed. She was ably supported by Mr. Harry Mainhall and other members of the cast, which was far stronger than the average talent of companies sustaining theatrical stars."

The company will appear at the McKisick Opera House Monday evening in "La Belle Russe," the strongest play in Jeffreys-Lewis' repertoire. Box-sheet at Nasby's Bazaar.

NEVADA HORSES.

The Nevada Land and Cattle Company shipping a lot East.

The Silver State of the 19th instant says: T. D. Parkinson, Manager of the Nevada Land and Cattle Company, has sent a band of forty-two horses to Winnemucca, which will be shipped East in charge of P. M. Golden, an experienced horseman.

Twenty head of the horses will average 1,250 pounds each, and the others about 1,050 pounds each. The dams of the larger animals were selected years ago by Mr. Parkinson from first-class stock, comprising Belmont, Hambletonians, Patchen, John Nelson, Signal, David Hill and other celebrated California strains, and the dams of the smaller or range horses, were Oregon mares, selected by the Owyhee Company, whose range and stock were purchased by the Nevada Land and Cattle Company some years ago. All are superior animals and will be shipped to-day to Chicago, and possibly some of the finer ones may be taken to Philadelphia.

As this is the first shipment of horses from Nevada, or at least this part of the State, to cities east of the Mississippi, these animals will convince eastern horsemen that the sagebrush country is capable of producing as fine carriages and farm horses as the prairies of Illinois or the blue grass regions of Kentucky.

A FATAL BATH.

R. H. Elam, a Resident of Lincoln County, Drowned in Salt Lake.

A dispatch from Salt Lake City says: Dr. R. H. Elam, an old resident of White Pine, Nev., and for the past sixteen years a resident of Pioche, was drowned at Garfield Beach, in Salt Lake July 18. He came here on the 16th directly from San Francisco to return to Pioche in a day or two, after settling some business in this city. He went out to Garfield this evening and went bathing. He attracted no attention till he began to float face downward, and was thought to be doing it purposely, but presently he was noticed to be sinking and was dragged out. He gasped once or twice, but could not be resuscitated. The Coroner's verdict was that he had a stroke of paralysis and had strangled to death. Deceased was a prominent Lincoln county politician and was a delegate to the last Democratic State Convention.

Lockwood of the District of Columbia, properly accompanied by Mr. Albert N. Love of Pennsylvania, and the Industrial Reform nominees, Redstone of California, and Calvin of Kansas, and the regular tickets—Democratic and Republican.

State Land Office.

During the week ending July 20th twelve applications for State land were filed, embracing 3,791.85 acres. Cash receipts were: Payments on applications, $3,673.19; payments on contracts, $35.56; interest payments on contracts, $41.35; total, $4,150.10.

Fashion.

And society, impose many privations upon the female sex, in the way of dress. First it is one frock, and then another, and from the fact, that many of them are unhealthy in the extreme, it is small wonder that many women succumb, and that "female weakness" is the too frequent result. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only positive cure for these complaints in existence, and thousands of women can bear witness to its efficacy. "Favorite Prescription" is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is the only medicine for women, sold by drug stores, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturer, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, or anti-bilious Granules, Laxative or Cathartic, according to size of dose. Purely vegetable.
